

Youth at the Top 2023 – VIDEO CONTEST!

The annual Youth at the Top event is back again for its ninth edition, and we are excited to announce the taking place of our first international video competition. Make sure you don't miss out!

Youngsters and young adults from anywhere in the Alpine region will gather with their camera lenses, to create the ultimate embodiment of this year's theme:

Forest – The Almighty!

The topic for this year's educational contest is all about Alpine forests, and how we can ensure the thriving of these natural ecosystems and protect them from human activity. Participating organisations will be given the tools and opportunity to teach our younger generation the power, beauty, and benefits of these habitats and biomes, and how to take care of our forests in a fun way, introducing methods of protection, and good practices on touristic excursions or while doing outdoor activities. Children and young people will be made aware of current challenges and threats to our woodlands, and learn how to prevent negative impacts on biodiversity, and adapt to future climate change issues. This will be executed in the form of exciting games and adventurous explorations!

Don't miss out on the fun!

Join our many participating organisations for the chance to win the grand prize!

Over 30 parks, associations, organisations, institutions, and protected areas from all over the Alps and the Carpathians have registered already, set to bring young curious minds on exciting adventures in mountain woodlands, to explore the great outdoors, and discover the beauty of nature. The aim is to encourage creative learning about how we can protect our precious surrounding environments and disperse this knowledge to any viewer of the final video clips.

Make sure to follow upcoming details and information on this exciting event on this page and on our Youth at the Top website [insert link] to find out who wins the grand prize!

The winning videos will be made readily available for all to see at the end of the judging process, so be sure to keep in touch in order to witness our younger generations' creativity at its best, inspiring hope for the future wellbeing of our precious Alpine wilderness, and the co-existence between man and nature!
